

Dance of the Butterfly

*A butterfly's wings, with colours so bright,
Flutter and dance in the golden sunlight.
Like whispers of silk, they tickle the air,
As the delicate creature dances without care.*

*With grace it pirouettes, and twirls with delight,
A ballerina, spinning on a stage so bright.
Through meadows it glides, as flowers sway,
A magical ballet, enchanting the day.*

*In nature's grand theatre, the butterfly performs,
A dance of beauty, in each petal it transforms.
With every gentle flap, a message of grace,
A delicate dancer, with elegance and pace*
