

One  sunny day, Tora  and Stig  were running  around camp  playing .

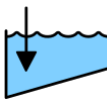

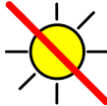

Collecting  their weapons, the men  left  to go hunt.  Before leaving,  .

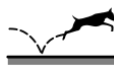

Dad  pointed  to the forest  and shook  his head, warning  them not  to leave  the camp.

Without  hesitating, Stig  jumped up  to go into the forest  to look for tasty  berries. Tora  frowned  but didn't want  to let Stig go  alone. So off they  snuck  into the deep,  dark  forest.

Without warning, a sabre-toothed tiger leapt out from the bushes. The children's mouths fell open and they stood as still as statues. The tiger lunged forward! Sprinting, Tora and Stig headed for camp, dodging everything in their path. Suddenly, Stig fell and heard something snap. He couldn't move! Panicking, Tora dragged him to a nearby cave and they waited for the sabre-toothed tiger to pass.

As soon as the coast was clear, Tora dashed back to camp to get help. Hoping the tiger would not return, Stig stayed in the cave.

When

Tora

arrived

in the camp,

she found

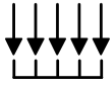

her dad

and

explained

everything.

He had a

face

of thunder

but there was no time for arguing.

Quickly,

the men

picked up

their

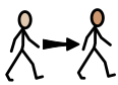

spears

and arrows

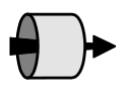

and

followed

Tora

through the forest.

Minutes

later,

they

found

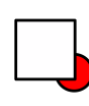

Stig

in the cave,

huddled

behind a

rock.

Tora

threw her

arms

around

him and he cried.

He

knew

he

would

never go into the forest

alone again.
